as the fireworks brightened the sky above corsair field at halftime on halloween night, it was obvious that this wasn't just another homecoming.

this year the traditional celebration lasted for three days and involved more students than ever before.

the festivities began on wednesday, when the sophomore and junior classes pooled their talents to stage an obstacle course in the quad.

on thursday, the campus was dotted in blue and gold, as exhibitionistic seniors in clown costumes offered helium balloons for a quarter. several clubs got into the carnival atmosphere by sponsoring booths in the quad.

that night, students abandoned all hope of sleep as they worked till the sun rose on their creations of chicken wire and countless paper napkins. santa monica residents patiently tolerated the confusion as vikes all but took over the town in the pre-dawn.

apparently some float building actually did take place that night, because while sleepy students gratefully devoured pancakes and coffee in the cafeteria friday morning, the brightly colored floats were proudly displayed in the quad.

attempts at serious education were abandoned friday morning as vikings struggled to stay conscious for the pep rally. the greek theatre was crowded with the loudly enthusiastic masses who enjoyed the skits and performances and waited impatiently to discover whom they had elected homecoming queen.

the crowning of Estella Rodriguez was doubly special. this being vice principal Porter I. Leach's last samohi homecoming, he was given the pleasure of placing the congratulatory kiss on Estella's cheek.

after the rally, students presumably rested up and got suitably fortified for the evening ahead. they met at school and paraded noisily up pico boulevard, accompanied by a police escort. the rowdy celebrants cheerfully blocked traffic until they disembarked at corsair field, where they cheered the vikings to a 6-3 victory over north torrance.

students then regrouped at the girls' gym where they exhausted their last energy resources hustling to the music of "triad".

at midnight, when students left, either to continue their celebrating privately or to sleep it off, everyone agreed that homecoming was the beginning of not just another year . . .

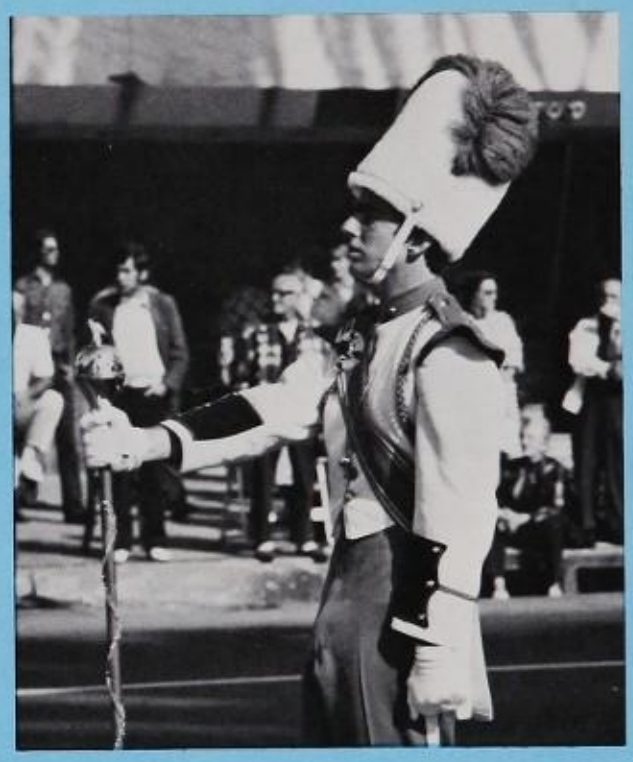
school spirit doesn't necessarily mean pom-poms and rah-rahs. although those dedicated cheerleaders are sometimes the most insistently visible aspect of spirit, there's more here than meets the eye.

school spirit is playing the french horn in the orchestra, or sewing costumes for drama productions, or being a member of the debate team, or bsu, or chess club.

performing groups and clubs are "in the spotlight" because whether or not they do their thing on stage, they are the focal point for school activities.

school spirit is a reflection of how happy and satisfied students are with their school. students who are active are happy; they help make a year not just another year . . .



varsity yell leaders

the varsity yell leaders started their season off on a somewhat questionable note. yell king Cary showed up at summer camp with his arm in a cast. this was a minor drawback but Cary's notorious enthusiasm, along with support from the girls, soon overcame this inconsequential disadvantage.

the varsities were distinguished for their imaginative and lively routines, notably their wizard of oz skit at homecoming and their favorite karate skit, allowing them to release aggression.

j.v. yell leaders: (l-r) De De Guercio, Chris Rodriguez, Jennifer Swendsen, Kaia Balsz, Gina Caruso, Susie Mattson.

j.v. yell leaders, alias knocky, googles, mooey, jingles, kissy, and smirk, like to "have fun, to be rowdy, to be together, to laugh, and to eat!" in other words, they like everything about being a j.v.

the group earned high honors at camp, and were recipients, along with the varsities, of the spirit stick.

the girls in front of all those people, waving their flags, tossing their batons, doing cartwheels—why do they do it? is it simply an excess of energy and school spirit? they spend so much time rehearsing and working, it has to be more than excitement about a football game. the girls do it for a variety of reasons. there's a feeling of tradition, of carrying on a ritual that's been handed down for years. there is a feeling of pride and accomplishment that accompanies a good performance. and it's fun! the girls get a rare opportunity to meet new people, and to form warm friendships that grow from working together.

when you observe everyone in the crowded greek theater stand with arms aloft in a victory salute, voices raised in a sentimental chorus of "o hail to thee, dear samohi" you might get the impression that all of samohi shed a quiet tear at the mention of their "queen of the setting sun." but a flying apple core might shatter your lovely illusion. there are those who take fiendish delight in aiming for those vulnerable performers with a variety of unpleasant refuse. in spite of those proudly unimpressed cynics, we are experiencing a "rah-rah rebirth." the restless youths of the 60's have donned pep club sweatshirts and are searching for something to cheer about.

viking band

samohi's marching band provides the exceptional musical accompaniment for a variety of activities. in fact, the band performs 40 different times throughout the school year.

the band makes beautiful music together at football games, music festivals, stairway to the stars, the spring concert, and four parades.

the band displayed its superiority in many competitions, the most notable of which was the parade at rosemead, where the band placed second in a field of 26 competing schools.

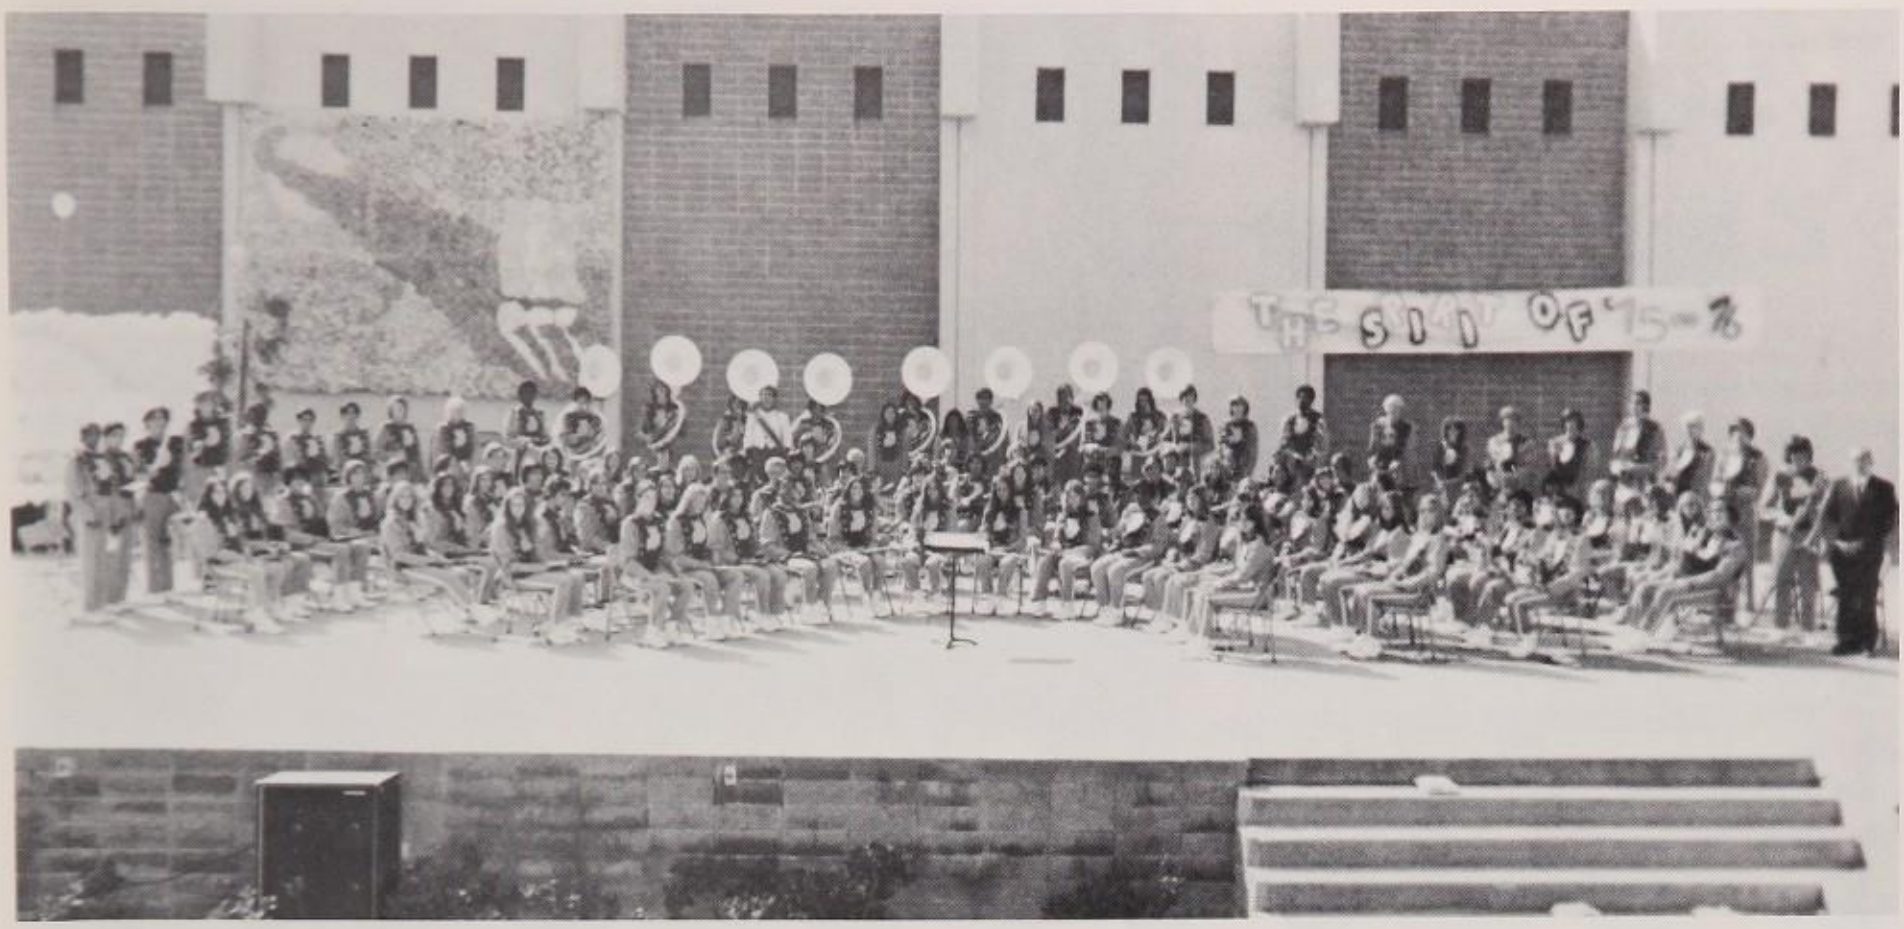
band director Mr. Zachman



drum major- Max Nardoni

Max Nardoni proudly led the band to one of their most successful seasons ever. not only did the band win sweepstakes and first place awards, but Max was also singled out for top recognition.

besides providing a focal point for the band, the drum major must keep tempo. Max performs his crucial contribution with a distinctive style all his own.

to be a sergeanette, one must have good teeth and strong jaw muscles. the girls spend a significant amount of time smiling, and that requires stamina and a dab of vaseline on your teeth.

the sergeanettes are the largest spirit group, and are an awesome sight parading down the greek theater to the tune of "the victor's march."

in addition to adding immeasurably to halftimes and pep rallies, the girls helped earn the many honors won by the band and sergeanettes at parades this year. the sergeanettes did a wonderful job representing samohi in statewide competition.

the sergeanettes' new uniforms and routines doubtlessly inspired them on to greater performance perfection.

Miss Brenda Stratton-sponsor

captains: Pam Engle, Lizanne Chance, Vanelle Smith, Louise Barranco, Cheryl Flenoy

the captains do more than just perform. they are girls who've risen through the sergeanette ranks to become leaders. they choreograph and teach routines to the sergeanettes, as well as perform separately.

the captains performed at a rams half-time during training camp, and performed at the riviera country club in honor of the sister cities. the captains hit the city's high life with the serenaders when they perform at nightclubs.

officers: (clockwise) Rhonda Flenoy, Debbie Garvin, Diana Plukas, Linda Wodehouse, Theresa Armijo business managers: Bettina Prets, Audrey Forsen, (not shown) Pam Friedman victor & vicki viking

of course, Emil Pourroy and Melinda Kiss added their own touches to performances. they are the masterminds behind the blue glitter "spirit stick" awarded to the lucky class that makes the most noise at pep rallies.

the pep club is notable for the energy, enthusiasm, and endurance of the members. the group appears to be unfailingly excited about something all the time. it is to their willingness to work that we owe much of the spirit at samo.

Pep Club Roster: Pres. Sherry Keefe, Vice pres. Kiki Baxter, Tres. the majorettes flashed their silver batons at football games, pep rallies, and parades. the girls' tricky routines require lots of skill and hard work, involving hours of rehearsal.

the girls display their art at miss drill team u.s.a. by placing second in their division of the national competition.

this was the first year the tall flags came into their own as a performing group. they became a separate entity and a member of the front performers. the tall flags participate at pep rallies and football games. they also march with the band, helping to win the honors earned by samo this year.

what do sophy the day dreamer, bonehead, meme, sturchie, coop, and boingboing have in common? they're all '75/'76 songs. "we are the spirit of '76," according to sophy. "it's a fulfilling and worthwhile experience."

their dedication was obvious during performances. in addition to waving their pom-poms during the regular football season, the songs maintained enthusiasm for the basketball games, and joined other spirit groups for parades and miss drill team usa competition.

this year the banners were chosen by tryouts for the first time, insuring a capable group of girls.

the banners began their not just another year with new tunics, new formations, and a 1st place trophy at long beach state summer camp.

the banners perform in parades, and in miss drill team usa competition. they were instrumental in capturing the 2nd place award at the parade in rosemead.

the drama club loosely encompasses the people who are interested in the art of performances.

members meet to vie for attention and to plan noon dramatic events and publicity for major productions.

the drama club is concerned with theatre on both sides of the curtain, stressing backstage involvement as well as exhibitionism.

of course, the real reason for the existence of the drama club is to provide an excuse for the drama club banquet and the presentation of the coveted Glenn Ford award.

viking orchestra

samohi enjoyed the largest orchestra ever this year. the talented musicians brought a touch of culture to our school in the form of frequent concerts of very high quality.

the orchestra performs with choral groups in festivals and at the annual stairway to the stars. samohi shares its orchestra with the community at several special performances.

at the end of the year the orchestra is rated at a district festival on the basis of their performance on two prepared pieces and one sight reading. the orchestra definitely deserves the superior rating.

forensics was one of the most active groups on campus. the students worked long hard hours preparing debates and speeches for competition.

forensics sent members to compete in several tournaments throughout southern california, and hosted some meets of their own. members also participated in state qualifying meets.

forensics people participate in many different speech events, like group debate, dramatic interpretation, poetry interpretation, extemporaneous speaking, storytelling, oratorical interpretation.

from forensics' outstanding activities this year, it's obvious that the group's success is a product of the skill and enthusiasm of its members.

current affairs

the current affairs discussion club provides a place where students can feel free to express their views and learn from one another.

there is no standing membership, so there is a changing variety of opinions on constantly varying subjects. an executive board presides at each meeting to maintain some structure.

the club did not hesitate to discuss controversial topics like homosexuality, euthanasia, prostitution and the new york economic crisis.

members participated in homecoming, contributing a giant mouth made of paper napkins, and joined in the bicentennial day festivities.

members of the RADIO CLUB are ham radio freaks. they all have citizen band radios and they transmit words of wisdom all over the world. their varied contacts send post cards to samo, and the club proudly displays a wall full of international greetings.

club members participate largely on their own, coming together occasionally to compare notes.

bergman and fellini may not know it yet, but their competition is hard at work at samohi.

the members of the FILM CLUB use their own equipment and ingenuity to create their celluloid masterpieces. they write, direct, film, and star in the cinematic explorations. the titles of the films give an indication of the kind of mind active in this club. members were hard at work on "from new delhi with love", "the man with the golden chopsticks", "what, teflon again?" and "casino royal flush".

the VIDEO CREW has an eye on samohi. the video crew films convention, plays, and sports events, as well as special projects. this year the eight members crew filmed a commercial to help sell the nautilus.

the video crew got an opportunity to expand their creative efforts into the world of color film.

members of the MATH CLUB demonstrate their amazing ease with numbers by consistently winning the math contests at which they compete.

the 15 members earned an honorable mention at the occidental math field day, where they were in competition with more than 100 schools.

the math club represents samohi spectacularly by being the most successful team in 10 years.

BIOLOGY HONOR SOCIETY members are students interested in the wonders of science.

they demonstrated this interest by conducting fascinating experiments throughout the year. members tested a plant for possible reaction to human thought and injected rats with male hormones to determine correlations between male hormones and aggression.

samohi nurses Ruth Sayre and Anne Bystrom serve as guides for those students interested "in the growing potential of the health fields."

the group heard a speaker from alcoholics anonymous, and went on field trips to the Jules Stein eye institute, ucla, and the Brotman memorial hospital. members also held a christmas party in a convalescent home.

the MEDICAL SCIENCE CLUB also co-sponsored a bloodmobile at samohi and raised money for two $50.00 scholarships.

on a more frivolous note, the club held a bubble gum blowing contest during bicentennial week.

"ask not what bsu can do for you but what you can do for bsu." that quote may be familiar in another context, but Pres. James Davis feels it epitomizes what bsu stands for.

bsu had a busy year, organizing car washes, bake sales, and concerts. they marked black history week with a fashion show. bsu also sponsored the traditional spring pageant, complete with the election of queen. they also put together a talent/variety show.

agape is samohi's nondenominational christian club. agape is translated as "in great brotherly love", and the members meet to "find ways to express our love with each other through bible studies and rap sessions".

besides searching the bible for insight, members practice their concept of brotherly love by caroling at hospitals.

according to a member: "our common focus is a love for Christ."

hotdoggers unite! don't let those mirrored shades intimidate you, half the aces in the ski club are real snow bunnies. whatever their level of ski expertise, members achieved their goals, which were to get new people involved and have a great time together.

the ski club hit the nearby slopes a couple of times this year. getting up to mammoth requires some ready cash, so members sold santagrams and see's suckers to finance their trips into snow freak paradise. club members also saw ski films when they were forced to stay in sunny southern california.

after the snow melted, ski club members got together for a picnic to dream about last season's moguls.

the members of the sailing club got together to promote a greater interest in sailing, to learn to sail and navigate, and basically to have a great time in the middle of the pacific.

members spent a lot of time afloat, going on overnight cruises to catalina and santa cruz. they participated in regattas with the sea scouts. members also spent saturday afternoons on deck, going on shorter trips.

the clubs learned about boats firsthand by repairing sailboats donated by generous patrons for the group's edification.

girls' service spent the year doing things for others.

they sponsored the christmas canned food drive, and gave a party for the children at head start.

the girls were responsible for the popular pie - throwing booth at homecoming, and for the red white, and blue crepe paper that blossomed on the trees in the quad at bicentennial day.

delians visited disneyland on their annual off-campus day, and the sealbearers attended a banquet in their honor.

in addition to being an honorial organization, the delians provided tutoring in their specialty subjects.

the nautilus staff joins the rest of samohi in congratulating the delians for their academic success; unfortunately we are unable to print all their names.

viking sports holds many rewards for the athletes who endure throughout the school year. it teaches things not learned in classrooms, like dedication, responsibility, and working with others towards a common goal. being a viking athlete doesn't just mean appearing in front of a screaming crowd playing some silly game. it means waking up at 6:30 for a morning workout in the pool. it means meeting at the football field on those precious saturdays for a few extra hours of practice. it means missing fifth period at least once a week. it means working out on those hot summer beach days for that extra edge in the fall. it means going home too stiff and sore to do anything but sleep. it means watching a friend get carried off the field. it means acknowledging 3600 different criticisms from 3600 vikings. it means pride in one's school and one's self; it holds a sense of accomplishment that stays with you for the rest of your life. a true athlete can never be satisfied with merely winning because a true athlete eternally seeks perfection. people in action are a part of samohi and people in action proved it wasn't just another year. . .

when the 1975 season got underway, the stigma of the previous season vanished and samohi appeared to be on the comeback trail. the future looked bright when the vikes blanked their opponents in the first game of the season. the team, coaches and spectators were optimistic.

samohi dropped its bay league opener to a tough rolling hills squad followed by a scoreless tie with centennial. many were disenchanted. another loss to west torrance and it looked like a losing season.

the team suffered a number of key injuries to top players Bob Leitelt, Lemoine Dawson, Tim Cheatham and Stanley Wilson. they were handicapped but did not give up hope. with revamping of the offensive and defensive alignments, they were ready.

to the surprise of many and the disappointment of their opponents the vikes got rolling and blasted their way through the next four games, ending up with a 5-3-1 mark overall and 4-2-1 in bay league action.

Coach Tebb Kusserow was pleased with the team's success." i was satisfied."

"from the standpoint that our players met with a lot of adversity, yet were able to persist and play well in the latter half of the season. i was pleased with the concentration and intensity of effort." Coach Kusserow went on to explain, "i wasn't surprised with the team's success because they played up to their potential and adapted to their situation early in the season. i was particularly pleased with the outstanding leadership our seniors gave us."

the team's flexibility as a whole was undoubtedly instrumental in their success. all-around captain and mvp Bob Spallino played a total of six positions throughout the season including rover, defensive back, offensive running back, tailback, receiver and punt returner. player positions were often juggled in order to compensate for key injuries.

other top players singled out by Coach Kusserow were defensive linebacker and end Mel Kaufman and Chris Moline, Henry Willis and leading league interceptor Dennis Smith, all-westside Ed Kybartas, James Bell, Victor Lewis, David Montanari, John Moss, and Karl Cochran.

cross country takes fourth in league

Head Coach Paul Kerry's varsity cross countrymen, with a record of 5-2, placed second in regular season dual meets and fourth in bay league finals.

the season opened at the pre-season moorpark invitational. although samohi could only place seventh, hopes for the upcoming season were high because of Bill Haldeman's capture of first place honors. "this was Bill's most fantastic performance," explains Coach Kerry, "he ran the course in 9:43!"

samohi opened their dual meet season against torrance, downing the tartans easily, 23-35.

the vikings' first test was against the always strong rolling hills runners. Coach Kerry remembers, "last year they killed us, 43-18, this was a revenge meet." with top showings from Phil Cass, Jeff Zukin, and Bill Haldeman, viking revenge was imminent. samo won, 23-30.

again vike might was to be tested against west torrance. samo met the challenge. Bill Messenger and Jeff Zukin took the top two spots cinching the win, 24-32.

coming off their first defeat at the hands of south torrance, samohi was placed in the dubious position of having to win all remaining meets to capture bay league's top spot.

samohi ended their season suffering their heaviest defeat at the hands of the agressive and experienced palos verdes runners, losing 15-47. Coach Kerry explains, "palos verdes was tough and ready for santa monica."

with Bill Haldeman still out with a knee injury and Phil Cass down with the measles, the vikes were only able to manage a fourth place, not good enough for a c.i.f. berth.

Coach Kerry comments, "they are the most united group of young men i've ever coached, it's really been a pleasure."

"they were the bright spot of the season." stated Coach Kerry.

while the junior varsity's counterpart was only able to acquire a fourth in bay league competition, the multi-faceted j.v. squad captured second place honors only to fall short by losing to the experienced palos verdes runners.

girls volleyball led by Head Coach Marty Ruby, remains one of the most consistently good teams at samohi. with a record of 15-1 for the year and a league mark of 13-0, the vikes ended the year capturing league's top honors and tied for third in cif play.

in what could be termed a building year for the vike spikers, Coach Ruby has put together another powerful contender, reaching the second round of cif playoff competition only to lose to a strong Marlboro squad.

much of this year's success can be attributed to the players themselves, Coach Ruby explains, "they had good team work, they worked hard at practice and got together off the courts also."

santa monica seemed to roll effortlessly through league competition with key victories over the always tough mira costa spikers. of all matches over the year the one against defending cif champions and number one ranked louisville promised the greatest reward. the vikes rose to the occasion defeating the surprised louisville team in two straight games. Coach Ruby recalls, "it was a total team effort."

"there were few individuals on our team," explains Coach Ruby, "they played as a team. for such a young team they showed remarkable diversity. they learned really quickly and played smart all season."

Coach Ruby is optimistic for the upcoming season. With virtually her whole team returning and many players moving up from the jv ranks, vike volleyball promises to be a top contender still another year.

junior varsity volleyball took a big step forward this season with the addition of new head coach Barbara Wise. this showed as the vike spikers displayed fine ability by finishing second in their league with a record of 12-2.

tankers struggle through year

Coach Brooks gives last minute instructions to varsity tankers.

this year's varsity water polo team under Head Coach Frank Brooks ended their season on a somewhat unsuccessful note with only one returning varsity letterman, Jim Smith. the team was young and inexperienced and faced a year of rebuilding.

the season's opener came on the first day of the school year as the tankers played host to thousand oaks in a game that proved to be a close loss. samohi then traveled to long beach to compete in the highly competitive moore league tournament against the top teams in cif.

soon after the vikes opened league play against a tough mira costa team. soon after they earned their first win of the season against venice in a practice game.

although the tankers had their best game against the powerful aviation water polomen they still lost. Head Coach Frank Brooks explains, "that was the best game we played all year. Chris Fall played well in the goal, the team played well as a team and put out a lot."

reflecting on the year as a whole, Coach Brooks commented "although the team worked hard we didn't do as well as we were capable of."

this year's leading team members included most valuable player and highest scorer Jim Smith, captain and most improved Axel Hubert and captain and most inspirational Chris Fall, goalie. other team members include seniors Stathie Gourgouris, Albert Williams, and Dave Condon. juniors include Dick Ringer, Joel Sercarz, Bob Path and Kirk Lazaruk.

the junior varsity water polo team, consisting of five sophomores and two juniors, had a successful season of even wins and losses. "the team was not an aggressive team, but they could play a very fundamental game," commented jv coach Stuart Blumkin.

sophomore Eric Smith was the highest scorer for the jv's, and also was voted most valuable player. sophomore John O'Rourke was voted most improved over the season, and Rene Burlet was the second highest team scorer. "John O'Rourke improved a lot over the season, and Rene Burlet has shown a lot ot potential with one ot the strongest arms of the three teams," stated coach Blumkin.

other team members included sophomores Paul Stader and Louis Scaduto, and juniors Mark Mammarella and goalie George Kypriotis.

under the superb direction of sophomore coach Robert Coulter, the sophomore water polo squad had a most successful 1975 season. "our season was very successful considering we play all four year high schools. we also won the consolation trophy in the los alamitos sophomore tournament," remarked coach Coulter. "there was a lot of hard work and improvement by the team and everyone learned a lot about the game."

the sophomores opened the season with two defeats from thousand oaks and rolling hills. they soon regained their confidence and took the consolation trophy in the los alamitos sophomore tournament. in the tournament, the only loss came in the first game, from long beach poly, who then went on to win the tournament.

girls' tennis takes third having tougher bay league opponents to contend with and a relatively young squad, the samohi girls' varsity tennis team, under the direction of Coach Ardis Bonozo, concluded its season with an impressive 9-4 mark overall, and a third place league ranking.

trouble began with key losses to beverly hills and palos verdes. as the season progressed these two were the teams to beat. south torrance and rolling hills proved unchallenging, thus, for the first half of the season samo ranked third in league action.

the second half of the season was an instant replay of the first with one exception. the girls just missed a tie for second place in a crucial match against palos verdes. the vikes failed to come up with the win and went home in third place.

the team's only losses were to beverly hills and palos verdes. the importance of the scores should be noted as coach Bonozo explained, "we played much better the second time and the scores were definitely closer. we didn't get enough points from the doubles to pull it out."

members of the 1975 varsity team included: Linda Chu, Sandy Coutts, Stacy Holt, Ann Hutchinson, Wendy Kissack, Lisa Niles, Annalisa Orman, Jenny Smith, and Jamie Stiehm.

luttel: new head coach

in what could hardly be termed a banner year, new head coach Gary Luttel's varsity cagers attempted to salvage a losing season by building for the upcoming season.

starting mostly seniors at the opening of the season, Coach Luttel has slowly placed underclassmen in an attempt to build experience for the following season. Coach Luttel explains, "we're trying to establish a sound basketball program from the beginning."

since the opening season loss against the top ranked bulldogs of pasedena, vike basketball has struggled through the remaining games.

turbulent year for jv basketball

"we might have done better than our record shows." explains Head JV Basketball Coach Richard Beede.

with a total team record of 4-19, samohi jv basketball could hardly claim a successful season. although their record lacks excitement, Coach Beede was still pleased with his team. "they're neat kids. they worked hard and i can't ask for anything more."

key players were Greg Twitchell who played varsity as well as jv. Coach Beede elaborated, "Greg showed a great deal of promise." another vike standout was Namon Thompson, who Coach Beede feels is as good as any he's ever seen.

sophomore basketball received a rude awakening this season with new Head Coach Tom Travers. accumulating a nine game winning streak the vike cagers ended their season with a record of 17-7, good enough for a 2nd in league competition.

"they have totally committed themselves to our style of rugged aggressive defense," explains Coach Travers. "they've generally shown good aptitude and intellegence on both offense and defense."

the vike cagers never lacked depth with steady defense from mira costa all-tournament John Beard. other key vikings include a steadying influence in Dale Ward and tremendous consistency from Frank Weatherwax, while Jim Hoover provided the vike cagers with an enthusiastic lift. off the bench was Jim Detrixhe who was instrumental in several vike wins. Chuck Dayton pushed to the starting ranks by mid-season to add some flavor to the already blossoming vike cagers.

the world's most popular sport is finally catching on in the good ol' usa. with the advent of professional soccer and the formation of children's leagues, soccer has grown phenomenally in our own area.

this sudden expansion has produced what viking Head Coach Jose Lopez calls, "the youngest and best team to ever play at samohi. they totaled the best record in the school's history of soccer, putting them in the playoffs for the first time. they were halted in the second round of cif play because of an inelligible player.

the season can hardly be put by the wayside. with virtually the whole starting team returning next year, this past season can be looked upon as one of building and accomplishment.

the depth and diversity of the vike soccermen was made apparent when seven vikes made the all league team. Juan Caro and Albert Ibarra made first team honors while William Alveranga, Peter Trifunovich, Jaime Menjivar and Salvador Guerrero were placed on the league's second team.

vike sports seem to be blossoming! the once inexperienced and losing wrestling team has grown into what could be considered a first class championship team.

santa monica sent several players to the cif sectionals. Jon Silver won two of his four matches joined Richard Pierson who captured a third. Dan Cisclo was the only viking to qualify for the cif finals. Doug Takahashi and Don Archibald lost both their matches.

traditionally, varsity sports has been led by the more experienced seniors. when you get a team that can win with underclassmen leading the show, you know you've got something. Head Coach Frank Brooks, with assistant Stuart Blumkin, led the young vike strokers to another successful year.

some of the steadiest performers of the year have been John O'Rourke and Paul Stader, to whom Coach Brooks refers: "They're flexible in every event. they've helped us out immensely."

Robert Brondijk holds the 200 individual medley and the 100 butterfly department secure, while the consistently improving Bob Path adds a steadying influence. in the 50 and 100 freestyle you can always count on Dick Ringer for points. Evan Schlackman proved his worth going from a 1:12 to a 1:08 in the 100 breaststroke, securing the vike squad. the diving is handled by newcomer Lori Silva, who just gets better with every meet.

"they've learned what it's like to do something and really dedicate yourself to doing the best possible job," explains Coach Brooks, "It's going to pay off."

the vike swimmers downed opponents at the league finals held in samohi's home pool. the home pool advantage, if it could be called that, seemed to spur the biased crowd to help the samohi viking swimmers to a remarkable four point victory. the vikings pulled off an unbelievable win capturing many top honors as well as doing remarkably well in the intense diving competition.

exuberance was the key note when the official score was announced. everyone within six feet of the pool was thrown in.

with a record of 7-0 in league action and 12-0 on the year, Head Coach Bob Coulter's vike swimmers breezed through their season downing all opposition.

outstanding performances were turned in by freestylist Keith Brown, Mark Temkin, Kevin McAfee, Ed Wingard, and Clay Kubovec. the people doing the job of swimming the 200 yard individual medley were Klaus Campbell, George Freeman, and Steve Cooke. the strong, consistently improving backstroke group of Mark Walker, Clay Meier, and David Allard rarely lost a meet. rounding out the vikes are breaststrokers Louis Scaduto, Devin Zook, Scott Grady, and the man of many strokes, Domenic Silvestry.

"the team is a well balanced team," commented Coach Coulter, "everyone contributed to our success. it was truly a team effort."

high school sports are said to be a character building experience for the young persons involved, not a blood and guts, win or die medieval spectacle. unfortunately this responsibility is overlooked all too often. when you look back on a season, winning hardly seems as important as the journey. this philosophy was never made more apparent than with head coach Lee Finch's varsity netters.

"they're a grand bunch of young people. they've worked hard all year. i'm very happy with their improvement and always encourage them to do better."

leading off this array of tennis magic is senior John Maresca who is in his third year of varsity tennis. one of the most improved returning varsity vikings is Mark Naylor, followed close behind by the extremely coordinated and intelligent team within a team, Francis Chase and Lisa Boomgard.

samohi tennis seems to run their own immigration system. in Lorcan O'Herlihy, of dublin, ireland, we have our second import in as many years. being one of the top ranked juniors in his own country, Lorcan easily fit into the santa monica tennis system.

every couple of years a team comes along that possesses a complete understanding for a sport. Head Coach Tom McCaffrey has helped develop such a squad in his varsity niners. "they're a good team, they possess a lot of team unity."

this team unity is evident in their style of play. they play rough and aggressive led by ace pitching star Tim Leary. defense is third baseman Mike Tennant's middle name. no team can be a consistent winner with just a few key players. the vikes are no exception. pitcher Richard Schroeder, catcher Tony Diaz and David Montanari are other key players.

vike spikers do it again

the end of an era has come to samohi. Head Volleyball Coach Ken Petersen completed his sixth year at samohi, compiling an impressive record of two cif championships and two times runners-up. currently the vike spikers are seeded #1 in cif and are heavily favored to take top honors.

when asked about his year coaching at santa monica, Coach Petersen remarked, "it has been rewarding. we've had outstanding teams and hard-working players. they've been talented, easy to coach and we've had lots of success. i'm appreciative."

returning varsity players include hitters, Bob Lietelt and George "crunch" Dempsey. after a years rest Jim Adams has returned to re-establish his varsity starting position. the other starting setter is Carl Schallig. another surprise starter is Darryl Paine. possibly the most complete vike performer this year is Dave Putnam who excels in all aspects of the game. additional hitters include Roger Dekyzer and Mark Eller while Marco Ortega helps in the setting department. rounding the vike squad is Freddie "bubblie" Beteta. Pat Powers does come off the bench to help out.

the vikes began their season beating two out of the three top teams in cif. they also went on to defend their #1 status by devastating the l.a. city schools top two teams, palisades and taft high schools.

since volleyball was initiated at samohi, the vikings have never failed to bring home the league title.

Coach Scott Sollee's j.v. spikers again brought home the gold.

returning letterman Tim Walston led the vikes with fine middle blocking and excellent hitting. Reed Shank filled in the other middle blocking position. sophomore hitter Jack McShane came on strong for the vikes. another sophomore Stuart McCallister led the setting department.

"i'm very pleased with their performance. i see a lot of potential for the varsity team next year," stated Coach Sollee.

golfers swing to victory with only two returning lettermen on the varsity golf team this year it didn't look too promising for a successful season. but with an abundance of good young talent, the team, under the direction of Coach Irv Kasten made it a successful season once again.

led by seniors Doug Williams and Duke Blackwood and sophomore Jimmy Detrixhe the varsity team got into the swing of things early by defeating the first two teams they came up against, south and hawthorne. then they came up against two tough league opponents palos verdes and harvard losing to them both bringing their record to 2-2.

after suffering those tough defeats the teams came back with an impressive victory over beverly hills. things looked really good for a c.i.f. playoff berth, but they faltered and took a heavy loss to rolling hills after being seven strokes ahead. this loss shattered samo's hopes for going to c.i.f.

fighting for something to show for the season the linksmen came back and defeated league arch-rival torrance bringing their season record to 4-4 and a great chance to win league.

the junior varsity golf team under the direction of Coach Irv Kasten had an outstanding year going undefeated. although they don't play in a certain league the j.v.'s play between six and ten matches a year. this provides the other golfers that aren't on varsity to gain experience in playing in matches and to prepare them for next year when they will play for the varsity.

led by Eddie Kim, Greg Armstrong, and David Wilson the team fought off the challenges of such teams like miraleste, lawndale and torrance. this years' j.v. team wasn't expected to fair this well with all new young players on the team, but they proved different coming in with a very fine season of 5-0.

Alison Eoff breastrokes to a finish.

Geanne Holden starts off the blocks.

like their male counterparts, the girls' varsity and jv swim teams blasted thei way to a crown and their first league victory. sure of success, the girls overpowered their opponents from the beginning.

starting off the season, the varsity medley relay team of Geannie Holden, Mary Lou Arnet, Janet Later, and Jenny Smith reeled off a cif qualifying time of 2:05.8. sophomore Mary Lou Arnet pulled out a qualifying time of 1:14.6 in the 100-yard breastroke.

returning varsity freestylers Carolyn Arnet and Jenny Smith dominated their events.

butterflyers Janet Later and Michelle Campbell battled it out and tallied a number of important wins.

all-around sophomore Karen Morton was a valuable link to the team's success, swimming everything from the 200 yard medley to the 500 yard freestyle.

the nautilus staff would like to join the rest of samohi in saying a fond farewell to the faculty members who are leaving us this year. Mr. Porter I. Leach, the main behind student activities for the past 30 years, left the halls of samo for a life of leisure. Mr. Seymour Watts, Mrs. Helen Mason, Mrs. Rose Utterback, and Mrs. Vivian Miles have likewise opted for alternatives to the samohi way of life.

all these people have made their significant contributions to the samohi scene over the years, and will be sadly missed.

we wish these faculty members the best of luck, and thank them for making samohi not just another school.

there are many people who deserve special recognition for their special efforts to make this not just another year. these men and women devoted their extra time and energy to perform invaluable tasks: the nurses who kept the school healthy; the gardeners without whom there would be a lack of great endless hours changing and reworking students' schedules; the administration who kept the school running with clockwork precision; the secretaries who without their efficient work would leave the offered their help and understanding. to these and all others, the nautilus staff takes pride in warmly extending our gratitude.

this year the faculty proved once and for all that they weren't simply disciplinarians on the other side of the desk.

teachers put themselves through some amazingly grueling tests. there was the faculty pep rally, the faculty/aztec game, in which our male faculty ventured on to the soccer field and their female colleagues supported them on the sidelines; the faculty homecoming skit; the pie-throwing contest, in which teachers put their dignity and clothes on the line as students took careful aim; student/faculty lunches, and many more good-natured faculty escapades.

the faculty was always willing to sponsor or advise a club or project; we couldn't have done without them.

their capacity to have fun, in addition to their dedication, concern, and creativity they display in teaching, made this year not just another year. . .

The 1975-76 school year has been outstanding! SAMOHI is again in the forefront as one of the top high schools in the country.

I have been most impressed this past year by the variety of curricular and extra-curricular activities that have occurred on campus. We have an active and involved Student Body that has made things happen. Our Student Body and Class officers have provided excellent leadership and have exerted a positive influence on campus.

I have a deep sense of pride about our school and what we have accomplished together. The "Spirit of SAMOHI" is working together and this spirit has been a major contributing factor in our successful school program and fine reputation.

A special word of thanks to the Class of 1976. They have worked very hard for SAMOHI during the past three years. Best wishes to them for future success and happiness.

Sincerely,

it certainly wasn't just another year in the vice principals' office. Mr. Porter I. Leach, vice principal of student activities, retired after 30 years at samohi. Mr. Richard Turner, former dean, stepped in to lend his new outlook and best efforts to the vice principals' office.

Miss Beverly J. Waters, vice principal of curriculum services, has this to say about working with students at samohi: "no year is ever the same in education—that, in essence, is its very secret, challenge, and excitement . . . the personalities of student and faculty have made samohi a very special place in which to learn."

the deans' office made a personnel shuffle this year. they lost a Turner and gained a Kelley. Mr. William Kelley, former head of the history department, stepped into the dean's office vacated by Mr. Richard Turner, who became a vice principal.

about his new job, Mr. Kelley commented enthusiastically, "i'm continually impressed by good kids here at samohi . . . i'm noticing it now that i'm out of class."

Dean Jonie Lewis kept a strict eye on attendance with the help of a new system, which students quickly found to be much more effective.

the counseling office works hard every year to find the most useful education for each student. according to Mr. Sandor Rosenfield, this year the students helped the counselors to do just that.

"today's student understands to a greater degree than ever before that a high school education should be a period of growth, of experiment, of expanding one's mind, one's sense of self, and one's appreciation of others."

samohi offers a varied schedule of classes, and students have the opportunity to enjoy a full education.

the social studies department began a trend toward stressing history and government fundamentals in their curriculum. this doesn't mean the social studies department didn't keep growing creatively—on the contrary. the department offered two new classes this year, international relations, which studied the u.n., and african studies, which gets into african history and culture.

through their social studies classes many students had an opportunity to participate in experiments with organizations like the model u.n. and the nationwide jr. statesmen club.

scientific minded students have 14 classes from which to choose. there is a wide range of choices, and the ideas for new classes come from students and teachers constantly.

new classes this year are physiology 3-4xl, for students who've shown interest and ability in their first year of physiology, and geology for students interested in different kinds of rock.

according to a faculty member, "we are here to get the students interested in science". with a varied and fascinating choice of classes, it should be easy.

"our staff is very creative, they are always seeking ways to make the classes valuable and interesting..." comments english department head Mrs. Rita Ahern.

the dedication of the english department faculty is evident. it is the biggest department in school, offering nothing short of 57 classes.

a new class this year is "images of women in literature." unfortunately, that title intimidated boys sufficiently enough that no boys signed up for the course. the title is to be changed to "images of men and women in literature."

theater arts is the most popular english class, and theater is stressed within the english department. the 12x classes studied plays in depth prior to performing them. without the english department's support, the noon one-act plays would never have been possible.

the english department is growing constantly to remain current.

it wasn't just another year in the language department as the faculty found new ways to teach communication in a different language.

students in the fine arts department not only explore their abilities and test their limits by learning new techniques, they also participate in many different areas of school activity.

the goal of samohi's outstanding special education program is to educate the individual with exceptional needs. services are also offered for the student with speech, visual, or hearing handicaps.

the teachers concentrate on everyday skills, teaching students to balance a checkbook or read a bus schedule. the students also participate in an innovative program of industrial work. students work on different types of factory production and assembly work, for which they are paid on the basis of their promptness, attitude, ability to follow directions, and quality of output.

the dedicated and very qualified special ed. teachers work hard for their positive results.

the home economics department dispenses useful knowledge about getting along in the practical world. with classes on nutrition, family and child care, and bachelor living, a student has the basis to begin living independently after high school.

samohi personnel

without a doubt, the staff is the real power basis of samohi. the nurses, secretaries, security guards, janitors, gardeners, cafeteria workers, switchboard operators, science and language lab technicians, audio visual personnel, lifeguards, librarians, the people in the textbook and work experience offices, the vike's inn workers, and the computer technicians keep this school going.

the designation "staff" is inadequate to describe the wide range of services performed by these skilled people. they are all responsible for the organization and physical upkeep of the school and the people in it.

without the support and the abilities of these men and women, samohi could not be the well-run, easy-going place it is.

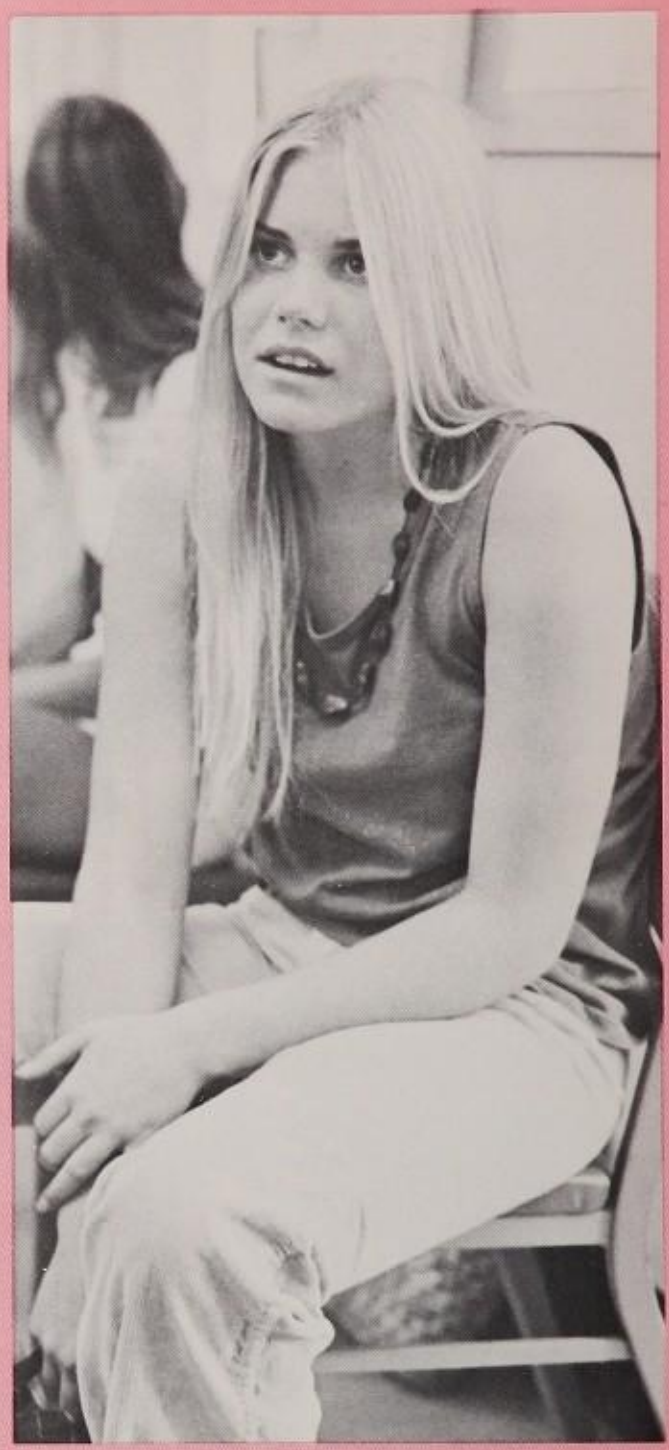
in person: the grads

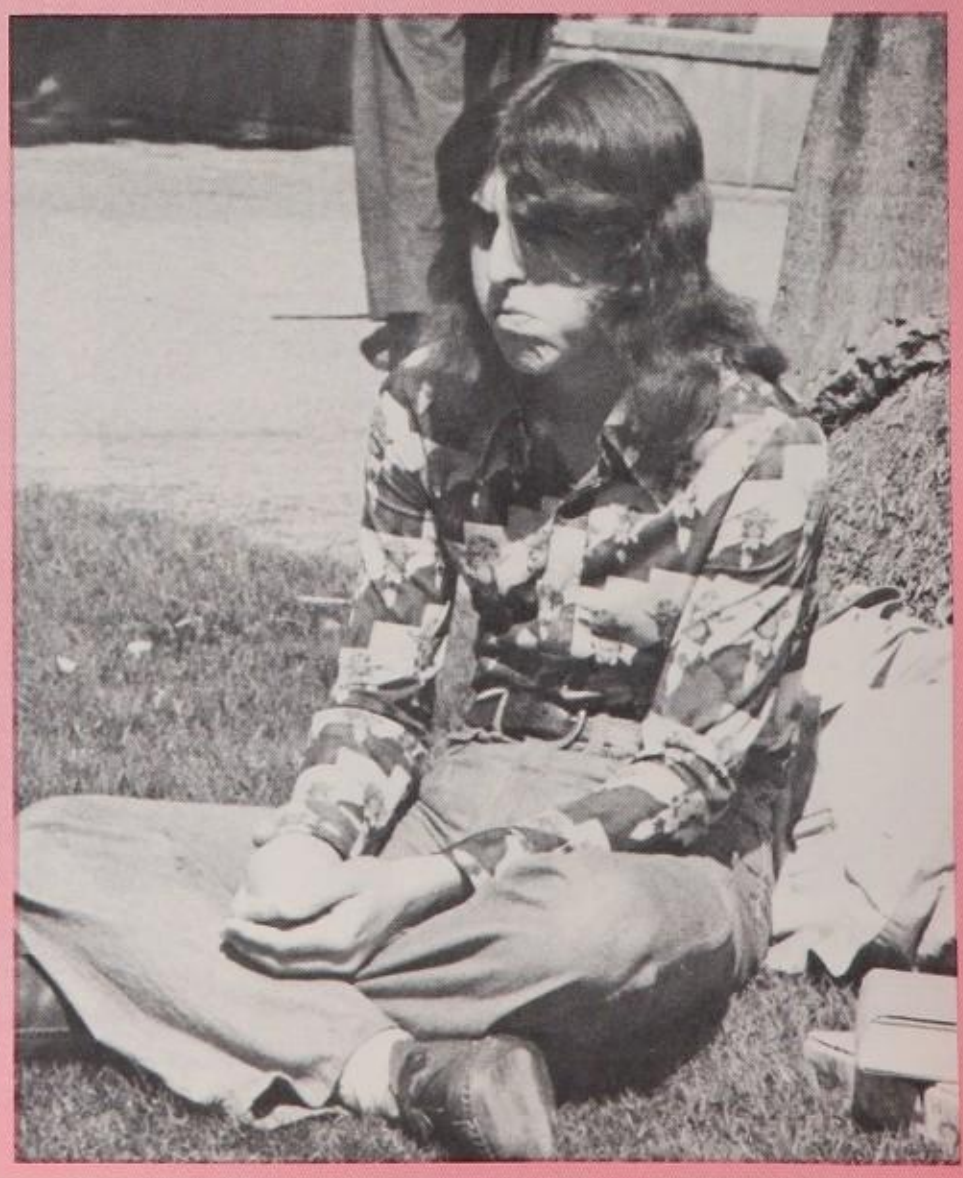
one of the most important lessons taught in high school is the lesson we learn about ourselves. in between bouts of algebra and physiology, we grow and change with each other. every graduate is a very different person from the person who entered samohi three years ago. the people and experiences of those three years have, for better or for worse, become a part of ourselves.

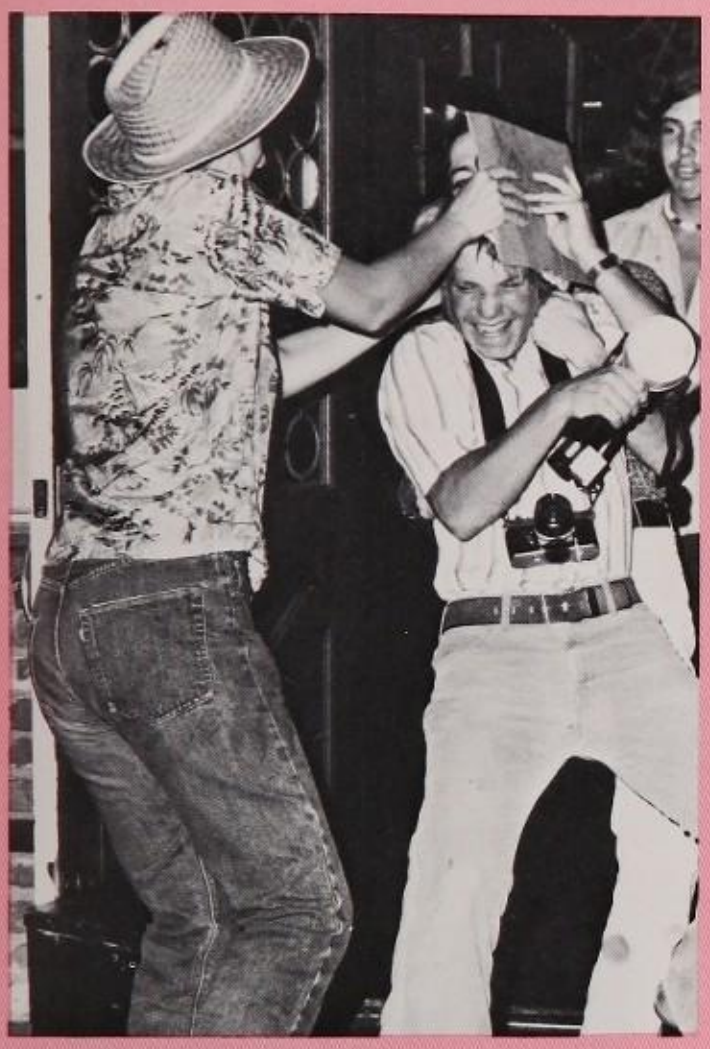
the enduring memories of high school are those of the people with whom we've shared the joys and struggles of the pursuit of knowledge. inevitably, when we're loosed from the shelter of high school upon an unsuspecting world, we'll lose touch with some of the friends, lovers, and drinking buddies who are so important to us now. this book serves as a record of that importance; a preservation of a fleeting bit of all of us.

graduation means anticipation as well as memories. as impending high school graduates, restless and impatient under unfamiliar robes and mortarboards, it's hard to imagine a world where no one asks for a readmit, life isn't measured in 50 minute intervals, and punctuated by bells. this world exists, or so we're told, and at last it's our turn.

the nautilus staff joins samohi in wishing the class of '76 hope and honesty and happiness in the real world.







the graduates of '76

members of the senior class board got together to plan a busy and successful year of activities. inspired by President Sharyl Gabriel's dedication and enthusiasm, the seniors engaged in a variety of diversions. Bob Malanga, Jane Netzen, and Lori Netzen, vice president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively, kept the senior class board all in the family.

seniors put on a christmas party for the inmates of a retirement home. they sponsored booths and a dance during bicentennial day, and participated in the festivities of sadie hawkins day. seniors sold balloons at homecoming, and celebrated at an after prom prom exclusively for seniors. they got together at a picnic and joined the faculty for dinner.

seniors helped the community decorate the rose parade float from santa monica, on which Sharyl Gabriel and John Maresca rode.

to finance their excursions, the senior class sold programs at football and freshman basketball games.

new officers assumed power at the start of the spring semester and carried on the fine tradition of senior involvement.

in person: the undergrads the juniors and sophomores have a somewhat thankless task. the glory and rewards invariably fall to the seniors while the undergrads work every bit as hard. this year's undergrads outdid themselves in enthusiasm and dedication.

the sophs got their first taste of high school life and, after an initial culture shock, quickly stepped into the rhythym of samo.

the juniors, by now old hands at being big kids, started the long countdown toward graduation. they didn't let their junior year go by without taking full participation in the many activities at samohi.

the juniors and sophomores made sure that this wasn't just another year . . .

the junior class board is the largest active class board on campus. they are also the most enthusiastic, judging from their consistent posession of the spirit stick.

the juniors celebrated the beginning of the year with a party and went from there to a successful year. the juniors sold suckers and held a car wash to raise money. they sponsored a grab bag, featuring a $5.00 gift certificate as the prize; they made just enough to pay for the gift certificate, but they had fun anyway. the juniors decorated samo's trash cans in honor of our nation's bicentennial. to wrap up the semester, the party-going juniors threw another one.

the sophs quickly got into the spirit of samohi, thanks to the dedication of the sophomore class board.

the soph board rallied against a lack of involvement to plan a year of activities.

the sophs made the bridge over which the princesses crossed during homecoming, and joined the juniors in sponsoring the obstacle course. they sold red, white, and blue balloons for bicentennial day. the sophs risked life and dignity in a donkey basketball game.

for the spring semester, new officers took on the challenge of involvement for the sophomore class.

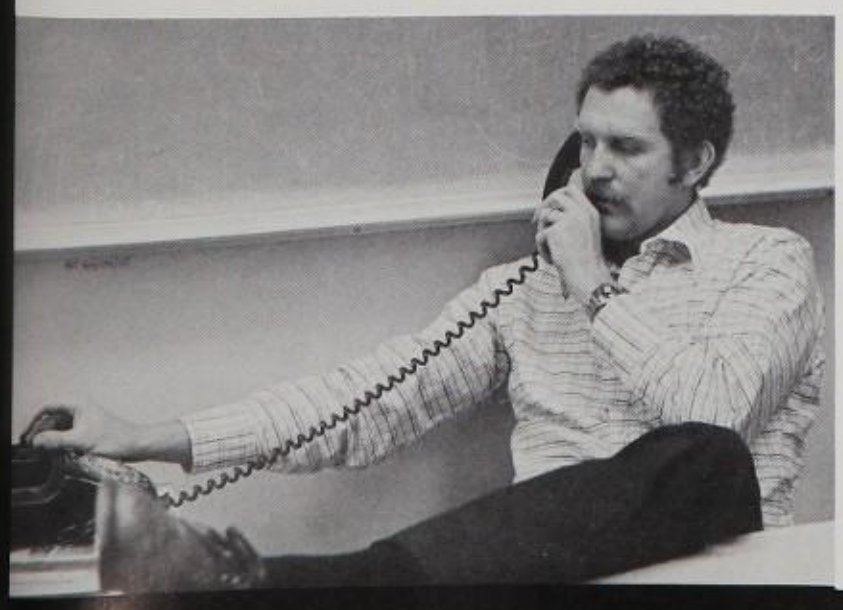
Will the real L.K. please stand up?

will the real L.K. please stand up? is he the family man wrestling with Kahlua? or the suave man about town James Caan look-alike? or the sophomoric jock rooting for usc with his buddy Ernie? or the benign father figure striving to be an authority figure? all of these identities, and many more, make up the L.K. we know and love.

everyone has their favorite memories of Lar. sweetly asleep on the couch, draped in old glory; frantic and blowing his cool over some imagined disaster; achingly regretting a fondness for chablis; listening in open-mouthed amazement to giggles and gossip from the girls. i could go on and on, but it's impossible to illustrate this multi-faceted paragon . . .



Knuth was not only always there when we needed support and encouragement, he was also there when we needed a friend.

admittedly, it was a hassle and a headache scrambling to organize this confusion into a reasonably cohesive finished product. but a few years from now we'll all get together for a couple of beers and a good laugh, and that'll make it all worthwhile . . .

much love and thanks,

in production

the people pictured on the following pages spent a busy year in production. they are the planners, doers, organizers, creators; the people who got things done.

Whether they created special days, the newspaper, or this book, they all devoted considerable time and effort, not to mention anguish, to make this campus a better place for everyone.

some of these people made things happen. others chronicled it. others recorded it for posterity. they are all part of what made this not just another year.

dear fellow students,

the student government at samohi for the 1975-1976 year has been very active and successful in putting on many student events and building better representation for the students. asb cabinet is a small group of concerned students constantly trying to represent the vast majority of the student body. its main purpose is to act as a direct link of communication between the student body and the administration. frequently, students consider student government to be a dead organization or a group that has no worthwhile potential. the numerous achievements of asb cabinet throughout the years could not even be listed on this page alone.

it is within a government that changes take place and precedents are set. these will directly affect you and your future. whether it be a student governing body, a city governing council or even the federal government, may i encourage each and every one of you to take an active interest in the workings of government. for only then will you be able to personally decide upon the things that will affect you.

good luck and best wishes to you all.

sincerely

cabinet officers can make or break a year. thanks to their enthusiasm and ambition, this year's cabinet officers helped make this a year of challenges.

president John Maresca provided the leadership. vice president Marc Winnikoff, secretary Chris Rodriguez, treasurer Jim Rodriguez, and speakers of the house Leslie Gainer and Kaia Balsz contributed the ideas. Together they created a responsible, mature, and reasonable atmosphere in cabinet.

it was to their credit that cabinet was able to weather several personnel changes. vice principal Richard Turner replaced Porter I. Leach as cabinet adviser, and Kaia stepped in after Leslie's resignation.

the goal this year was to increase efficiency in representing students. to achieve this, they worked to put a student on the board of education.

samohi was fortunate to have leaders who recognized their strengths and honestly worked to correct their weaknesses.

the commissioners have much of the responsibility for organizing and planning special activities. all of them devoted a lot of their time to insure that this wasn't just another year.

David Robertson, as commissioner of boys' activities, organized the talent show and dealt with such important issues as the ventilation in the boys' gym. commissioner of girls' service, Georgina Dewes, supervised girls' activities. Jay Ho, commissioner of clubs, organized and advised the many clubs at samo. commissioner of campus welfare, Susie Mattson, took charge of the frequent drives for charity. Anne Cooper, commissioner of entertainment, planned the noon entertainments. as commissioner of fine arts, Beth Firstman had our cultural edification in mind. Virginia Arnold, commissioner of publicity, was in charge of p.r. Muffi Beyer orchestrated noon activities. Elizabeth Sayre, commissioner of elections, took responsibility for voting. Yell King Cary Coatsworth was in charge of school spirit at football games and pep rallies.

the reps are the most visible and responsive members of cabinet. each rep. reports to assigned first period classes, to keep those classes informed and to relay suggestions to cabinet. the reps meet three times a week.

the reps undergo frequent evaluation by the teachers of their rep. classes and the speaker of the house, who checks on them at random.

the house of reps endured a lot of upheaval this year. Leslie Gainer resigned as speaker of the house and was replaced by the speaker pro tempore, Kaia Balsz. Several reps resigned throughout the year for various reasons, replaced by appointees who assumed the many responsibilities of a rep's job.

the atmosphere in L-111 during 5th period can scarcely be described. the room was affectionately called "the zoo", and anyone watching the inmates rebounding off the walls would never have guessed they were watching journalists at work.

not only did the editors have to struggle with a paper that always seemed to be in the rough draft stage, they had to do this with the help of Lon, Mr. Moody, Francis-Bob-Abe, Mr. Wilkinson, Michael Caine, and everyone else lurking in that crazy basement.

we all had our own ways of coping. Brian resorted to cheeseburgers and fries. Celia became easy, pushy, good, loud, and a Fascinating Woman. Patty played with decorative rules and wandering neurotics. Mike kept us laughing with his deadpan humor. Nikki wandered in occassionally to supervise and gossip. Eve had the responsibility of confusing the photo reproducers at least once a month. Scott, in addition to taking beef shots, spent long, recuperative lunch hours with Julie and Rich before print shop. through it all wandered Julie, murmuring "i'm not going to worry about it, i'm the editor."

the staff worked hard to maintain their fine reputation as the most eccentric group of hysterics on campus. when they weren't fighting about sports, music, politics, and their own talent, they were rumored to write. this has not been proved, however. the sports desk was the source of much of the astronomical decibel level. the room was rendered hazardous by the flying rulers, bits of paper and rubber bands with which these illustrious writers played.

everyone's contribution to this fine journalistic exercise was recognized in some way at the awards banquet, when they all finally got what they deserved . . .

editor-in-chief Julie Jaskol my thanks to the staff. i enjoyed most of you a lot; i learned unforgettable lessons about working with people from all of you. i hope i was more than just an editor-in-chief to you because you were more than a staff to me.

thank you Lon, for buying me drinks, making me laugh, and not taking anything too seriously. thank you Mr. Moody and Mr. Wilkinson, for your advice and experience. thank you Mr. Turner, for having a sense of humor.

i can't fully express my gratitude and affection for daddy Knuth. The SAMOHI couldn't have had a better adviser or a more wonderful friend. i couldn't have gotten along without you.

'75-'76 nautilus staff

how did a group of your basic nons, wimps, and wusses like us create such a great yearbook? it basically wasn't easy, but it was a hell of a lot of fun.

our staff was made up of some very strong personalities. while this meant we bickered a little harder, it also meant we enjoyed a lot more.

we discovered the real truth about each other at midnight of long deadlines, fortified by coffee, etc. personalities really got down to basics under pressure like that, but we always kissed and made up afterwards.

the bulletin board was an excellent gauge of staff temper. by scanning the jokes, dartboards, and carefully altered newspaper clippings it was easy to tell who was friend or foe that week.

we were a celebrating staff, never missing an excuse, however feeble, to have a party. there were night-of-the-deadline dinners where we geared up for the labors ahead, and day-after-dead-line luncheons where we became human again. not-so surprise birthday parties, total surprise christmas parties, saturday work days interrupted by pizza or las palma enchiladas, italian dinners when knuth promised us all dates for the prom; all of these made up a close group of friends, if not completely cooperative co-workers.

friendliness was at its peak one night at our thanksgiving feast at Leslie's tiny beach house. we shared our culinary skills and our cultural heritage, decked out in our classiest finery.

and when finally, despite our differences and disagreements, the last layout and the last copy sheet were handed in on that last deadline, we expressed our mutual respect and affection at your basic staff party to end all staff parties.

it would be impossible to recount all the things we've shared that made this a very special year for all of us. we'd like to thank a few of the people who helped make all the effort and anxiety worthwhile.

first, there's Michele, who revealed her true character at Liz's surprise party. and Doug who handled any job no one else knew how to do. Robin fell under the theme editor curse, and had to put her section together with the help of neckbrace, sedatives, and John. in addition to living down bad jokes about her layout editorship, Leslie was always on the go in pursuit of brotherhood and fresh packed powder. John is the talented architect who designed the Graber building. Allison was the staff sex symbol, her bikini sold more books than anyone. Julie J. plans to publish the copy that didn't make it into the yearbook, and has had the copy key surgically implanted so she doesn't lose it again. Tami wrestled with the confusion of advertising taking occasional breaks to twirl her basic flags. Melinda was the staff conscience, sweetly saying what no one else had the guts to say. the staff undertook prodigal Vivian's education; she soon developed appropriate nautilus behavior. "wall street" McIntyre was the financial wizard in the little green car he got for a steal. Ronee ran afoul of certain uncooperative faculty members, but her dignity remained intact. Jane had her head in the clouds and a certain runner on her mind. Jenny P. brought her own comfort to deadlines. between girls' swim, marine biology, and nautilus deadlines, it was common to find Nikki buzzing around the room on a caffeine and adrenaline high. was it nautilus pressure that made Richard hallucinate snow at 4:00 a.m. in big sur? he and Jenny S. learned to deal with coaches and other editors. Pat Sap exulted over her handiwork in the book and consorted with a kcrw d.j. Liz, Corine's indispensable right-hand person, took a crash course in photo editing and reindeer driving, not to mention pep talks. Vanelle took time off from captaining to help hold the faculty section together. it would be hard to imagine Robert without his mouth full or a camera slung across his chest. Julie N. and Lori, staff sophs, charmed us all as fun and competent additions to our staff. and Scott kept us in high spirits and never missed a chance for a questionable innuendo. at the semester we were joined by photogs Jim and Kathy, who tried to fill the vacancy left by Kris.

Corine, the inspiration for it all. Corine's "southern charm", vitality, and good humor didn't keep her from doing her job. she retained the qualities that make her special and worked with creativity and intelligence. Corine was combination boss, mom, and playmate, and did it all with style.

last, and most of all, L.K. the patron saint of wayward staffers. Knuth counseled us through our troubles, enjoyed our triumphs, and got us excused from classes in the face of sure death from outraged teachers. because he was fair, funny, and friendly, Knuth created a staff of friends who will remember him for a long time.

we hope you enjoy the results of our labors. for us, this book will be a reminder of a year that was anything but just another year. the year we were the 1975-'76 nautilus staff.

the nautilus staff faced a heavy decision. to whom should this book be dedicated? there are so many special people who deserve the honor. the decision was monumental. if only the book could be dedicated to all of them . . .

well, why not? if every single member of the samohi community doesn't deserve this dedication, no one does.

after all, who made this not just another year? you did. with your enthusiasm, individuality, and unfailing optimism, even in the face of seeming disaster.

was it just another year? the answer should be obvious by now . . .

in reality

here we are at work, at play, at ease. not much resemblance to the scrubbed, serene faces staring from our class portraits, is there?

in a way these random shots say more about us and this special year than do those stiff portraits. they capture a feeling rather than a likeness, and 30 years from now when we all look quite different, the feeling will still be there.

this is us, in reality. unposed, unself-conscious, maybe even unhappy. but unmistakably ourselves.

by being ourselves, we made this not just another year.

asb promotes involvement

many of this year's activities were brought to us by the busy folks who plot our destiny in asb cabinet. these people were responsible for the fun we had at convention, the tradition at which we elect our leaders, and at sadie hawkins' day, at which time girls are encouraged to exploit boys for a day.

cabinet sponsored a lot of fund raising projects that were as fun as they were profitable.

they made it possible for us to relax from studies with frequent dances, bands at lunch, and the student/ faculty get togethers.

in short, the many, busy, and devoted cabinet members helped make this anything but just another year.

it wasn't just another year for students who got involved.

these people actively pursued their interests on their own time. they not only developed their own talents, they helped entertain and educate other students.

french-speaking students indulged in linguistic artistry on the stage. they presented three comedies to the delight of their audiences, who understood the humor, if not the conjugations.

bsu members celebrated black history by illustrating the contributions of black men and women throughout america's history.

students shared their musical gifts with the general public at the stairway of the stars musical extravanganza.

the talented and ambitious performers at samo got a chance to strut their stuff at the talent show. performers of all types, and degrees of skill, vied for the limelight.

bicentennial...

this being the bicentennial year (oh, you hadn't noticed?) the grand old flag saw a lot of action. samo celebrated bicentennial week, climaxing in a bicentennial day and dance.

bicentennial week was celebrated in a variety of ways. different departments set up displays illustrating aspects of american heritage. the social studies department read a series of bicentennial minutes over the p.a. system. the drama department presented a dramatic american poetry reading.

samohi's club got in on the excitement by sponsoring booths and games in the quad. the sophs sold balloons, the juniors covered trash cans in red, white, and blue.

students participated in a gala pep rally, highlighted by an unofficial semi-streak perpetrated by mysterious strangers in jock straps and body paint.

the drama department began with a brass band salute to american musical theatre. "the music man" was a smashing success; the exciting entrance of the marching band through the aisles of barnum hall never failed to bring the audience to its feet.

the cast and crew of about 200 fought illness and exhaustion to present a lively and professional show. much of the success of "the music man" must be credited to the directors, Gene Jellison, Elizabeth Sayre, Gerald Anderson, Janice Mitchell, and Fred Purucker. everyone enjoyed a very special surprise at the friday night performance. after the final curtain call, the lights stayed on and David Robertson introduced "the music man himself, Mr. Meredith Wilson!" from among the capacity crowd Mr. Wilson, playwright and composer, joined the cast on stage for a few bows.

in fine theatre tradition, the cast and crew gathered to celebrate their success at a truly unforgettable cast party.

drum major Max Nardoni.

Mrs. Betty Gruber.

the '75 malibu yearbook conference.

a basically big bow to:

Mike Arnone (father of Tony Arnone) who kept us laughing and inspired during deadline pick ups (?!), and whose expert advice kept the book running so smoothly.

Vivian and Nikki, my all time favorite activities persons who let me depend on them 100% of the time.

Glenn McIntyre, our own "wall street", who had all the businesses of santa monica and malibu at his mercy.

Liz S., Julie J., and Leslie G., my most respected editors, for teaching me so much by doing their respective jobs with the expertise and understanding i so needed.

the staff of staffs, the 1975-76 nautilus staff who let me realize my dream and helped me to achieve it.

Mr. Lawrence E. Knuth II who showed me the way to do it, on my own.

when it finally struck me that the destiny of the 1976 nautilus lay in my hands last year, i realized my main goal: to motivate my staff to produce a yearbook that would not fall in the realm of average yearbooks, but truly show that this year had been not just another.

with my beloved staff behind me all the way (and at times, in fact, way in front of me), we commenced the fate of this book, the layout style, artwork design, copy style, ideas for the cover, and finally . . . the theme. how could we prove to you, the reader, that this had been not just another year? we decided upon the most simple yet effective way to get our message across—documenting the year as it happened all the while asking the question "was it just another year?".

i am proud to say on behalf of the 1975-76 yearbook staff that we have accomplished just that. i could feel the anticipation rising as the delivery of the book grew closer and each editor met his/her deadline for the publisher. it has been a very special thing watching the book grow from dream to reality with the staff.

not surprisingly, there are some great people, on and off the staff, that would have made the production of this book a thing of great difficulty. they were the ones who came to the rescue in our times of terror, hilarity, insanity, anger and happiness. their unselfish dedication might have gone unnoticed at the time, but shall hopefully be rewarded in full when they see the result of their combined efforts. i shall remain indebted to these people and be quite unlikely to forget their painstaking efforts and help.

well, that's it. i would like to thank the people, the story, and the school that made it not just another year. but stop for a moment and look for yourself. was it just another year? we hope the answer is as clear to you as it was to us . . . from cover to cover.
